

Notice Regarding Additional Diagnostic Testing

Certain conditions require additional diagnostic testing. During your evaluation, Dr. Fewins may recommend additional testing. Some of these tests include nasal endoscopy, laryngoscopy, audiogram or tympanogram. Not only are these tests essential to correctly diagnose certain conditions, they are considered standard of care. These tests are typically covered by benefits of your insurance plan. They incur a distinct charge separate from your “office visit” charge. Your insurance provider, not this office, determines the portion of this charge that you pay. If you have any questions about the nature of the diagnostic test, please ask Dr. Fewins. If you have any questions about the way the charges will be processed, please contact your insurance provider.

I have read the above notice and fully understand its meaning. I understand that I will be ultimately responsible for all charges incurred by diagnostic testing.
